DE BISSCHOP TRIES TO PROVE RAIL No. 16 NOT OF ATTIC BOARD

Witness in Hauptmann Case Resumes Stand With Pine Trees

A MINIATURE FOREST

Wilentz Objects and Goes Into Cross-Examination of Witness

By James L. Kilgallen
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

COURT ROOM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 8.—Charles DeBisschop, of Waterbury, Connecticut, who testified that in his opinion "rail No. 16" of the kidnap ladder and an attic board from Hauptmann's home had never been part of the same piece of lumber, resumed the stand today at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, for further cross-examination.

DeBisschop had his wood samples with him when he took the stand. He had made a good witness yesterday afternoon. He had failed to qualify as a wood expert, but allowed to give his opinion as a practical lumberman. He is a building contractor and nurseryman.

There was a delay as DeBisschop took his place on the stand. It seems for a few minutes that his examination would have to be postponed because of the absence of Frederick A. Pope, the wood expert of the defense lawyers, but Pope came walking into the court room bearing a small tree with him. Pope handed up several small pine trees to DeBisschop. At the instigation of Pope, the witness put all the sections of the little North Carolina Pines on an end and held them up. The whole trunk stood some 18 feet and on the top were glistening green needles.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz objected to the illustration saying the board in the case could not possibly have come from the skinny looking tree the witness was trying to put up. DeBisschop presented a strange appearance on the stand with his miniature forest.

Over the bitter objection of Attorney General Wilentz, DeBisschop was permitted to use the tree to illustrate his statement that in North Carolina Pines there are more knots in the butt than in the upper part of the tree. This would tend to bear out his contention that "rail No. 16" of the kidnap ladder and the board in Hauptmann's attic could not have come from the same part of the tree, hence, were never part of a single board.

Attorney General Wilentz cross-examined DeBisschop.

Q.—You want to carry to this jury the impression that this attic board was never nailed down to the joist?

A.—No, sir.

Q.—So far as you know, it might have been nailed down?

A.—It might have been.

Q.—You said yesterday that in the attic board and the rail, there were six-penny cut nails and eight-penny cut nails.

A.—Yes.

BAKE SALE CHANGE

The bake sale which was to have been held under the sponsorship of the B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist Church tomorrow at 10 a. m. in the store recently occupied by the Monarch and Leader meat markets, will be held at 449 Mill street, next to Breier's clothing store, instead.

DYNAMITING IN COAL REGION

Wilkes-Barre, Feb. 8.—Despite sweeping restraining orders of Judge W. A. Valentine, a charge of dynamite early today was hurled against the fan house of the South Wilkes-Barre Mine of the Glen Alden Coal Company at whose workings, a general strike has been called by the United Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania, for recognition. Police charge the dynamite was thrown by pickets and sympathizers of the new union in an attempt to force a shut-down of the large colliery employing 1200 men. The charge blasted out windows but did not damage machinery and the colliery continued to operate.

RUSSIAN FILM SHOWN TO CHILD SPECIALISTS

At Second Lecture in Series at The Woods School, Langhorne

BY DR. TEMPLE FAY

LANGHORNE, Feb. 8.—Many new and interesting things were brought out in regards to the mechanics of the brain as applied to the exceptional child, at the lecture conference, the second in a series, held at The Woods School, Bellevue and Flowers avenues, last evening.

Dr. Charles Allen, director of the Child Guidance Clinic, Philadelphia, served as chairman, and introduced Dr. Temple Fay, professor of neurosurgery, Temple University School of Medicine, Philadelphia, the lecturer of the evening.

Dr. Fay gave one hour to his informative and interesting address, and one hour to the Russian film, "The Mechanics of the Brain," produced under direction and guidance of Professor Pavlov, world authority on neurophysiology. The subject of the talk by this eminent medical authority was "Behavior Problems in Children: The Importance of Training and Conditioning."

The welcome was extended by Dr. Charlotte E. Grave, consulting psychologist of The Woods School, and a member of the staff. Over 100 had assembled from Eastern cities to hear the discourse and witness the pictures. A social period followed.

The lecture on Thursday of next week will be a very important one to educators. At that time "Family Situations in Relation to the Emotionally Unstable Child" will be presented by Howard W. Potter, M. D., professor of Clinical Psychiatry, Columbia University, New York, the chairman; and William Drayton, Jr., M. D., psychiatrist, Philadelphia General Hospital.

Dr. H. Doyle Webb Named As Head of Health Board

Bristol Borough Board of Health organized last night with the election of officers and the transaction of other routine business.

Dr. H. Doyle Webb was named as president; Serrill D. Detlefsen, secretary; John M. Wright, health officer and milk inspector; John S. Roberts, Jr., plumbing inspector.

The oath of office was administered to Joseph McCarron, recently appointed a member of the board. The other members of the board are Joseph B. Keating and James A. Callahan.

Speaker Says America Must Be Watchful of Its Trend

Bristol Exchange and Rotary Clubs held their regular joint meeting at the Elks home last evening, and listened to an inspiring address by Dr. William T. Hanzsche, of the Prospect Street Presbyterian Church, Trenton, N. J.

The speaker drew a striking picture of conditions under which our forefathers lived, and present-day environments, bringing out the fact that energy used by the pioneers in conflict with other nations is now directed into other channels and no doubt has been a potent factor in developing gangsters and racketeers of all sorts. He finally stated that the people of America must be watchful of the trend of the nation.

A FINE MENU

The roast beef supper, sponsored, prepared and served by the Ladies Aid and Brotherhood of Harriman M. E. Church, tomorrow, will consist of the following menu: Roast beef, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, stewed corn, boiled carrots, cole slaw, celery, rolls and butter, apple pie and cheese, tea or coffee. The price is moderate. Co-operation will be much appreciated.

SOCIAL NIGHT AT LEGION

The first of a series of social nights of Bracken Post, American Legion, will be held this evening in the Post Home at 8:30 o'clock and Mr. Harry Burbank who is the chairman of the committee in charge is in hopes the membership will turn out in large numbers to enjoy the fun, renew old acquaintances and meet new members. The evening will be spent in games and entertainment and the Burlington County Legion Band will be in attendance to furnish music.

LODGE FOUR PRISONERS IN WEISS CASE IN BUCKS COUNTY JAIL; ONE WOMAN INCLUDED IN GROUP BEHIND THE BARS

All To Be Given Preliminary Hearings Before W. Carlile Hobensack—Coroner Sweeney to Conduct Early Inquest Into Death of Weiss—Some To Be Tried This Month

WEISS MURDER CASE

Four defendants in the Weiss murder case who have been transferred from Philadelphia to the Bucks County Prison for trial in the criminal court of Bucks county are as follows:

Robert J. Eckart, 38, single, of 1422 Toronto street, Phila., a steel worker; charge, murder and accessory after the fact to murder.

Harry Seibel, 40, single, of 1819 Rockland street, Phila., an engineer; charge, accessory after the fact to murder.

Joseph Coffey, 27, single, of 1342 Newkirk street, Phila., truck driver; charge, accessory after the fact to murder.

Mrs. Beatrice Wilkinson, 32, of 4351 North Sixth street, Phila., married; charge, accessory after the fact to murder.

OTHER FACTS

Martin Farrell, Phila., member of the Mals gang, who went on trial yesterday in Philadelphia for escaping from the Eastern "pen" last Summer, through a sewer pipe, will be turned over to the Bucks County authorities after his trial in Philadelphia.

Walter Wiley, Phila., Member of Mals gang who will be brought to Doylestown later for trial on a charge of murder in the Weiss case; Wiley escaped from Eastern "Pen" last year.

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 8.—Four prisoners have been turned over to the Bucks County authorities for trial in the Court House at Doylestown in connection with the slaying of William Weiss, alcohol racketeer, whose body was recovered from the Nesheim Creek a few hours after its location was disclosed by Robert Mals, leader of the murderous Tri-State Gang, until he was electrocuted last Saturday.

These prisoners, three men and a woman, are in the Bucks County Prison awaiting to go before the Grand Jury some time next week. They will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace W. Carlile Hobensack before Monday. Justice Hobensack issued the warrants for their arrest, and the warrants were served on them in the Federal headquarters in Philadelphia by State Police and County Detective Antonio Russo, of Bristol, who is named as prosecutor in the cases.

After the cases go before the Grand Jury, they will be listed for trial. Whether they will all be tried during the February term of criminal court is not known, but at least one or two will surely be disposed of. Trial court will start Monday, February 18 and will continue through the week of February 25 if necessary.

Joseph Coffey, who was brought to the County Prison on Tuesday is charged with accessory after the fact to murder.

Yesterday, Corporal John Stewart, Trooper Lawrence Priar, County Detective Antonio Russo and Sheriff Horace E. Gwinner, brought three other prisoners up from Philadelphia. They included Robert J. Eckart, charged with murder and accessory after the fact to murder; Harry Seibel and Mrs. Beatrice Wilkinson, both charged with accessory after the fact to murder.

Regarded as one of the most desperate members of the Mals gang is Martin Farrell, who will be brought to the Bucks County Prison after his trial in Philadelphia which got under way yesterday. Farrell is being tried in that city in connection with the hold-up of the P. R. T. offices at Broad and Grange street, Phila., and for escape from the Eastern State Penitentiary through a sewer pipe last Summer.

It was decided to place Farrell on trial in Philadelphia after a conference on Wednesday between Judge Howard A. Davis, Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. Carroll, Bucks County District Attorney Arthur M. Eastburn, and Superintendent of Police LeStrange, of Phila. Later Farrell will be turned over to Bucks county authorities.

The three prisoners brought to Doylestown yesterday—Eckart, Seibel, Mrs. Wilkinson—and Coffey, who arrived here Tuesday, are reputed minor members of the Mals "mob," for which Mrs. Wilkinson kept house. Federal detainers have been lodged against all of them.

Eckart, Seibel and Mrs. Wilkinson were all caught in the North 6th street house in Philadelphia from which Mals and his lieutenant, Walter Lezenza, shot their way to temporary freedom only to be captured in New York and die in the electric chair last Saturday in Richmond, Va.

The trio brought to Doylestown yesterday afternoon had been held by Federal authorities who accused them of participating in the theft of arms and ammunition from National Guard armory in Norristown. They were freed of this charge on Wednesday by United States Commissioner Wacker at the request of Federal Agents.

The Government detainers lodged against them yesterday charge all three with harboring the fugitive Mals and Lezenza.

Shortly before the trio were turned over yesterday to Bucks county authorities in Philadelphia, Mrs. William Weiss, widow of the slain man, and Albert (Buck) Mayer, his friend and business associate, visited the Detective Bureau and identified a large diamond belonging to Weiss which had been surrendered by Eckert some time

MORRISVILLE COMMITTEE TO REPORT ON PLANT

Recently Made Visit to Quakertown on Tour of Inspection

WERE MUCH PLEASED

MORRISVILLE, Feb. 8.—The members of Common Council Electric Light and Power Committee, including Paul R. Nichols, Elwood Kohl and Russell Pfeiffer, along with Borough Engineer Harry H. Lee, Jr., will report to Council tonight on their inspection tour of Quakertown's municipally-owned and operated electric light and power plant.

The trip to Quakertown is the first of a series of visits intended to be made by this committee in attempting to determine the advisability of constructing such a plant here.

According to Borough Engineer Lee the results of the inspection of the upper county borough's plant showed that Quakertown, with a population of 4,883, approximately 500 less than Morrisville, has successfully operated its own plant since 1892. With the electric rates less than the prevailing rates in that vicinity, Quakertown's plant shows a profit of $45,000 for the year 1934.

The report will also point out that it costs Quakertown much less than the $6,662 it cost the borough last year for street lights. Quakertown reputedly has one of the best street lighting systems in the country, with huge lights separated by only 200 feet lining the streets, similar to those now used along East Bridge street by the Joint Bridge Commission on the lower bridge approach. The entire system operates with underground wiring, and eliminates the unsightly overhead wires which often mar the beauty of a town.

At the present time, twelve men are employed to operate the entire system in Quakertown, including the administration and collection of the electric bills.

BIRTHDAY LUNCHEON IS ENJOYED BY THE SOROSIS

"The Sorosis Review" Departments Presented by Various Members

HAVE A LARGE CAKE

LANGHORNE, Feb. 8.—The birthday luncheon of Langhorne Sorosis in the library yesterday, took the form of an "A. B. C. Party", with members whose names commenced with the different letters of the alphabet being grouped together for participation in the delightful program.

The luncheon was preceded by a brief business meeting, presided over by Mrs. Lynn J. Harrington, and after the serving of the menu the "periodical" "The Sorosis Review", was presented for perusal.

The various departments of the magazine were in charge of: Editorial, Mrs. Harry Taylor; drama and books, Mrs. G. Furman Mather; story, Mrs. Ernest Harvey; music, Mrs. Joseph Edgerton; current events, Mrs. J. Nelson Allison; advertising, written by Mrs. Paul Bennett and read by Mrs. Charles Beidler; entertainment, Miss Marian Longshore; beauty and health, Mrs. Noe; gardens, Mrs. Henry Parry; babies, Mrs. Harry Rothermel, aided by Mrs. William K. Reeder, and Mrs. Clarence Randall; jokes, Mrs. William Stark and Mrs. George Stahle; horoscopes, Mrs. Harry Williams.

Mrs. Harrington had provided a large birthday cake for the gathering, and all who assembled about the 13 tables enjoyed the delicacy. A feature of the meeting was a brief presentation for the honorary members who were asked to pass through an archway formed by other members who bore carnations in upraised hands. A brief ceremonial occurred as the group gathered about the birthday cake.

The meeting on February 21st at the library will feature club institutes, with Mrs. Henry Pickering as chairman.

Sentence Rosario Caro To Glen Mills Reformatory

Rosario Caro, 15, 822 Jefferson avenue, was yesterday committed to Glen Mills Reformatory for an indefinite period by Judge Boyer. Caro was given a hearing at Doylestown where he had been taken by Chief of Police Jones. Caro admitted participating in 17 robberies here during 1934.

Last Saturday night he broke out of the house of detention at Doylestown and came back to his parents' home here. He was returned to Doylestown. Caro pleaded guilty to the charges.

BENSALEM ACCREDITED FOR NEXT THREE YEARS

Public Schools So Notified By Chairman of Middle States Group Department

BOARD HAS MEETING

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Feb. 8.—The regularly scheduled meeting of Bensalem Township board of school directors occurred in the high school, last evening, with Charles V. Wenner presiding, and the following officials in attendance: L. L. Williams, treasurer; J. Harry Hartley, Percy G. Underwood, Jacob Scheufele, George Cragg; Richard W. Fechtenburg, secretary; Samuel K. Faust, superintendent of the township schools.

Reports of standing committees included building and grounds, teachers, courses, etc. It was stated that repairs had been made to several of the school buildings during the past month. Buses, it was reported, operated well in spite of the recent blizzard. Other reports included the cafeteria, activities, purchase and supplies, finance and sinking fund.

Mr. Fechtenburg, the secretary, told of the convention held this week by school directors and secretaries of the state at Harrisburg, which he attended. Mr. Fechtenburg was a member of the State Accounting Committee which dealt with school accounting. After salaries and bill were ordered paid, a balance was shown in the treasury.

The board has been notified by Dr. E. D. Grizzell, chairman of the accrediting committee of the Commission of Secondary Schools, connected with the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, that Bensalem school has been approved as an accredited school for a period of three years.

Nursing activities' report showed that small epidemics which threatened had been checked. FEKA workers, totaling four women, are at work in the township schools, repairing books and cataloging books for the library. The report of Superintendent Faust showed that attendance was good during the past month in spite of the weather conditions.

Preparations are being forwarded at the school for the Bucks County Scholastic Meet to occur next month at Bensalem high school.

Annual Valentine Dance To Be Given by St. Ann's

Plans are under way for the third annual Valentine dance to be held in St. Ann's auditorium, benefit of St. Ann's Church, Wednesday evening, February 20th.

The dance will be semi-formal and promises to be one of the biggest affairs of the season.

A great musical treat is in store for everyone. Trenton's most popular band will be the feature of the evening. Ray Lonsdale and his famous music will be sure to capture the musical fancy. Dancing to the soft strains of the ever-popular maestro and his band an evening's pleasure is anticipated by all.

FREIGHTER AND FERRY COLLIDE IN DELAWARE

Boats Crash in Dense Fog Enveloping River Between Camden and Phila.

LIST IS NOT AVAILABLE

By International News Service

CAMDEN, N. J., Feb. 8.—The freighter, London Corporation, and the Reading Railroad ferryboat Cape May, collided in a dense fog in the Delaware River today. Whether any deaths or injuries resulted was not immediately ascertained, but eight or ten injured men were reported to have been rushed ashore to Philadelphia hospitals. The latter reports, however, were not confirmed.

The London Corporation, a British vessel of 2334 tons displacement, was inbound from London to the Port of Philadelphia. The collision occurred in the ice-caked river near mid-stream.

The London Corporation was carrying a general cargo. No passengers were believed aboard.

The passengers on the ferryboat and members of the freighter's crew were taken off in tug boats that rushed to the scene of the crash.

For some time after the collision the boats remained stuck together and then a report came ashore that one of the two vessels was filling with water and sinking.

SEARCH FOR JESSE WALKER

Uniontown, Feb. 8.—State Police and county detectives pressed their search throughout Fayette county today for Jesse Walker who is wanted for questioning in connection with the cold-blooded murder of 16 year old Anna Zinn, as she sat in an automobile with a boy companion near New Geneva, yesterday. Two shots from a revolver killed the girl, a student in the eighth grade of the Bowwood school, while she talked with her companion, Albert Thorpe, 19. One bullet pierced her right cheek and a second punctured the back of the head. After the first shot the assailant asked Thorpe: "Do you want some of this, too?" Frightened, Thorpe jumped from the automobile and ran. He told police he heard the second shot as he started from the machine.

$18,000 HOLDUP AT NEWARK

Newark, N. J., Feb. 8.—State Police today broadcast an alarm for five men wanted for a holdup of a bank at Sparkhill, N. Y., and the theft of $18,000. The alarm, state police said, was relayed from authorities at Sparkhill, a short distance across the state line.

NEW PLAN BEFORE CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—A new plan to put both public and private funds into the Home Mortgage Market and into new home construction, was before Congress today in the administration's Home Loan Bank bill. Not only would the measure authorize the T. O. L. C. to loan $1,500,000,000 additional to distressed home owners, but it would amend the Federal Housing Act and the Federal Home Loan Act to make home borrowing easier. The $1,500,000,000 authorized for H. O. L. C. brings the total to $4,500,000,000 and is expected to enable the corporation to virtually clean the slate of all applications of home owners facing loss of their dwellings.

DENIES STORY

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 8.—Deputy Police Chief H. W. Walsh today denied responsibility for a story appearing in the Hoboken newspaper that "once in the Hauptmann trial was a juror convicted of a crime on the basis of circumstantial evidence and later exonerated when the real perpetrator of the crime confessed." Walsh said he knew nothing about the story or the juror to whom it alluded.

$100,000 LOSS BY FIRE

Hanover, Feb. 8.—Fire early today destroyed the plant of the Mummet-Dixon Company with loss estimated at $100,000. Firemen and all available apparatus summoned by a general alarm, prevented the blaze from spreading to two adjoining plants.

BOY SCOUTS WILL HOLD HONOR COURT AT COUNTY SEAT

Judge Hiram H. Keller Will Preside Over The Affair

TO MAKE AWARDS

Numerous Window Displays To Be Featured During The Week

The county court of honor will be held on Sunday afternoon, 2:30 p. m., in the court room, Doylestown, with Judge Hiram H. Keller, chairman of the court of honor, presiding. All of the county Boy Scout officers will be present to assist in the conducting of the program. Several hundred Scouts will receive recognition and the inspiration of the Eagle Scout ceremony will be portrayed. The county championship Scoutcraft troop of Perkasia, No. 1, under Scoutmaster Clarence W. Souder, will dramatize the Scout Law ceremony.

The other activities of anniversary week include window displays all during the week for Seascout Ships, Scout Troops, and Cub Packs, under the direction of Dr. A. J. Strathie, of Newtown, chairman of the educational committee. All window displays will be judged on the basis of a standard scoring system, and an announcement will be made of those who were successful in achieving the rating.

Saturday is going to be known as "out-of-doors" day. Sunday is not only court of honor day, but Scout Sunday, with all of the Bucks County membership attending church service throughout the county.

Monday will be Scout Day, with dramatizations before school assemblies by the various troops. Lincoln's Birthday, or what is called "Pioneer Day" in Scouting, will be a Scout Mother's night at the various units, with the program reminiscent of the days of the pioneers and Abraham Lincoln.

THE PUBLIC PRINTS

Nineteen thirty-four was the busiest year in the history of the government printing office and you may have the word of Mr. A. E. Giegengack, the public printer, for it. Congressmen being no less verbose and the regular departments no less bureaucratic than usual, they attained their customary high productivity in the realm of the written word and the record of the spoken word. But there was an addition, a fine, big, juicy addition to this grand sum. Nineteen thirty-four found 54 recovery agencies functioning in the national capital. All called for a "tremendous amount of job printing."

For the NRA, for instance, millions of blank forms and pamphlets had to be turned out. Best mailers abounded. Consumers' cards stand at the head with 22,000,000 copies. There were not quite 21,000,000 copies of the 2,557 individual codes. Some of the posters containing the "labor provisions" following the 500 approved codes ran to 800,000 copies. A million and a half "two-color Blue Eagle code cards" were handled. The President's Re-employment Agreement necessitated the printing of 6,000,000 circular letters and the same number of accompanying slips.

The AAA needed 7,000,000 forms and pamphlets; the Labor Employment Service 7,500,000 cards. No wonder the plant had to work at full-day capacity and employ two eight-hour shifts besides. The NRA's weekly tabloid, The Blue Eagle, has a circulation of about 50,000.

It is the considered opinion of Mr. Giegengack that the worst, or the most, is yet to come. More hands will have to be hired this year and as good as 1934 was, 1935 will be better and busier in the public printer's office. Besides the printing required by the present emergency organizations, "which are barely reaching their stride, will be the demands of still other agencies likely to be created by" the present congress. The quotes are Mr. Giegengack's. The bill for 1934, incidentally, (we suppose it is merely an incident) was $12,600,000. The number of employees on June 30, last, was 4,793.

The statistics on an old friend, the Congressional Record, likewise interest. It ran to 13,110 pages. The oratory and other recorded material of the senate took 5,504 pages; the representatives got by on 4,874. But that is no estimate of the fall of words at Washington.

"The twenty parts already printed of hearings of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee on Stock Exchange Practices made 9,296 pages. In parts Nineteen and Twenty there were 525 half-tones. The thirty completed parts of the hearings on the Condition of Indians made 16,416 pages."

There is yet to come, we must remember, the accomplishment of that gargantuan task directed by the supreme court—a compilation and printing of the thousands of orders and regulations by the New Deal government.

"A mine is operating in Chile at an elevation of 18,480 feet." You'd think the boys would begin in the valley where they wouldn't have so far to dig.

"THE LADY DANCES" by MARGE STANLEY

CHAPTER XXVII

A REFUSAL

"Was Shene furious?" asked Mark as he and Vanya stood on the point watching the Caroline weigh anchor. A light breeze had cooled the parched air, whipping the girl's dress about her; she looked, Mark thought, like a lovely child of twelve.

"Why should he be? Every one was satisfied, or I hope so, anyway. And I'm glad you made me sing, Mark. I felt on the verge of collapse."

"You looked it. They'll have to be satisfied with less in the future," Mark said, the girl, turning to him with a serious expression. "Why are you so suddenly opposed to my dancing?"

"I told you why. I won't have you exposed to the gaze of eager seum like that—he indicated the Caroline, just rounding the point. "But it's my living, Mark."

"No longer, however," Mark said Vanya softly, "how do you think I'll manage to live when we reach the States? Or haven't you thought?"

"That's different, to dance before a cultured group."

"How do you know my dancing has merit enough for that?" asked Vanya. "Even if it has, do you think I can step off the ship into the ballet of whatever you call your opera—the Metropolitan?"

"Vanya, truly I hadn't thought of that."

"And if I should, by some miracle, manage to be placed in your—those reviews of Follies or Scandals, does every person who buys a ticket for those belong to a cultured group, and pay to see an artistic performance, and watch the dance instead of the dancer?"

Mark groaned inwardly; the picture Vanya drew disturbed him somehow, and he sought ingeniously for some means to counter.

"Vanya, when we reach the States, I'll manage in one way or another to see that you're decently placed. I have friends there, and some influence; and there are many quiet, artistic groups of dancers in the country."

"Our bargain ends at the docks, Mark. You made that stipulation yourself."

"But I want to do it, Vanya."

"And I won't accept it! However, Mark, there's so much fuel to burn before we reach the States. Why quarrel about it now? Tell me about the idea you said you had last night."

"Of course," said Mark. "I wonder that I didn't think of it before. It's simple; you're to leave Shene's employ at once, and stay at the Helmet as my guest; or, for that matter, in Nukudlova or Taulanglo, if you'd rather. It's only a short time now before we can leave."

The girl stared at him in apparent amazement.

"Mark, do you really believe I'll agree to that?" she asked.

"Why shouldn't you?"

"Do you think I'll take help from you as long as I can pay my way?"

"But dear, I offer it gladly. I'm not going to suffer any more seeing you devalued by the eyes of South Sea seum like those out there." He gestured toward the receding Caroline, now hull-down over the horizon.

"Then you'll just have to look away when I dance."

"But Vanya, why won't you do it? Is it asking very much?"

"Too much, at any rate; I simply can't do it!"

"But dear, can't you see my viewpoint? I don't like to think of you appearing in that dive, dressed—like that! And I don't believe you like it either—not if you've told me the truth of your attitude toward dancing."

She shook her head silently, decidedly.

"Or do you like it?" Mark continued, his patience worn thin. "Do you like to prance half naked before these grinning monkeys? Do you enjoy their gazing? Are you like a spoiled child with an exhibition complex?"

"Mark, I can't accept your offer, she said with a tone of finality, ignoring his angry outburst.

"But you'll accept passage to America; you'll take help in that!"

"And I'm paying for it—dearly!"

"Vanya," he said, choking back his temper, "you're being a stubborn fool!"

"And you're being a brute—crude, coarse, and without a spark of understanding! You're like the old Mark Talbot!"

"That you thought so fine and noble! Well, you're like the old Vanya!"

"That you thought so depraved and vile and unworthy! Thank you, indeed!"

"You're a headstrong mule!" "And you're a stupid jackass!"

"Vanya!" Mark muttered, his anger rendering him almost speechless. He glared at the girl with clenched fists, and she returned his gaze. They stood for a long moment staring their rage into each other's eyes.

Then, gradually, the flush receded from Mark's cheeks; a faint hint of a smile twitched the corners of his mouth, and his eyes softened.

"Honey, we're acting like a pair of children."

"You are! You're acting like a good many more than a pair!" Vanya was still angry.

Mark laid his hand gently on her bare brown arm.

"In the first place, dear," he said, "how often do ships drop anchor in the Cove at this season?"

"Seldom enough; three or four the whole dry season."

"There!" he said triumphantly. "The chances are a hundred to one that no mere ships will visit the place in the few days we have left to stay. Why quarrel about such improbabilities?"

"Because you like to quarrel, apparently."

"Don't you see, dear? The odds are that you won't be called on to dance while we're here. You'll have nothing to lose by promising that you won't, and I'll waive the guest part of the offer if you'll promise me that."

"On the same argument, you'll have nothing to lose if I don't promise."

Mark was forced to laugh in sheer exasperation. He slipped his arms around the girl, regardless of the forgotten Loring under his tree on the far side of the cove.

"Kiss me, Vanya!" he whispered. She yielded willingly; he pressed his lips to hers; they were warm, vibrant, responsive, and indescribably sweet.

"Promise?" he murmured as he withdrew his lips.

"No, dear."

"Then kiss me again!" "Not again," she shook her head gravely. "If I do, I'll promise what you ask, and I'd only have to break that promise."

"Then I could just keep on kissing you."

"No, Mark! Don't—don't start all over again."

Mark shrugged; the argument began to seem trivial, for it was quite true that the probabilities were strongly against the early appearance of another ship. The quick succession of the Ellie and the Caroline was a rare occurrence.

"You win, then," he said. "A graceful surrender!"

"I'm amazed," said Vanya, smiling. "Honey, may I go to my mending?—and without you; I can't work with you near me."

"You're being a brute—crude, coarse and without a spark of understanding! You're like the old Mark Talbot!"

"I'll visit Loring," chuckled Mark. "I'd as soon visit a nest of hornets!" said the girl as they moved toward the beach. "At least their stings are in their tails instead of their tongues."

Mark watched her disappear into the hotel. His anger had vanished completely as he turned to Loring. "Comrade," cried that worthy. "You came at an opportune moment! I've figured out a way to earn that quart!"

"I ought to tell you to mind your own business," said Mark.

"And I," answered Loring, "should be duly insulted, and explain that I have only your interests at heart. But I can tell you why you're afraid to believe Vanya's story, which, by the way, you never told me."

"I'm not afraid!"

"You are, and here's why: because your self-picturing, the way you think of yourself in your secret thoughts is much like mine—a gentleman. Though perhaps we mean different things by the word."

"I don't follow."

"Well, if her story's true, have you played the gentleman? Have you lived up to your own secret ideals of yourself—if it's true? Emphatically not, and that's why you dare not believe it!"

"Loring," burst forth Mark, with a few savage paces, "your services will earn you a solid kick rather than a quart of Shene's poison! I don't want psychological ways—I want proofs."

"Proofs? You're wilfully blind. I don't even know her story, yet I can prove it's true."

"I'd like to see you!"

SEES BUILDING BEING REVIVED DURING 1935

Housing Administrator Moffett Predicts Early Results From Program

The long-range program of the Federal Housing Administration is expected to clear the way within the present year for "such a revival of building construction as this country has rarely seen," in the opinion of Housing Administrator James A. Moffett.

Emphasizing that the Federal Housing Administration is developing a genuine home mortgage financing system to supplant the chaos which has prevailed for many years, Mr. Moffett said in a recent speech:

"Under Title II of the National Housing Act, we have the means to bring about a standardized procedure for home mortgage lending through the operation of our plan for the mutual insurance of mortgages meeting certain specified terms and conditions. This insurance, plus the inherent advantages of the type of mortgage eligible for it, should be sufficient to make these mortgages the standard practice all over the country."

This mortgage standardization, it was stated, will provide the basic conditions for such mortgages. This market would be fully realized in practice, it was pointed out, by the establishment of National Mortgage Associations with a minimum capital of $5,000,000, which would greatly facilitate the sales of these mortgages.

"The advantages of the type of mortgage which we propose to make the standard practice all over the country," Mr. Moffett continued, "are so evident that I need not discuss them at length. Merely to mention getting rid of the uncertainty and expense incident to the renewal of short-term mortgages is enough to clinch the argument in favor of the long-term amortized instrument. . . . But an advantage of even greater importance is to be derived from eliminating the practice of secondary financing with its exorbitant costs in the form of discounts and other rackets."

Mr. Moffett discussed the Federal Housing facilities for working out standard practices for appraisals, as well as for economic and technical research. He said that there are 61 underwriting offices in the principal cities of the country with each office fully equipped to make appraisals and investigations of all the elements involved in insuring mortgages. He said that more than 2,700 offices of financial institutions (over 1,230 institutions and over 1,470 branches) have already been approved as mortgage lenders with additional applications for approval coming in at the rate of 50 or 60 a day. He added that applications for insurance of mortgages also are beginning to arrive in encouraging numbers.

"Appraisals are being made," Mr. Moffett said, "and we can say even this early in the game that we are positively doing business."

"The first thing to be done," he added, "is to rehabilitate a large portion of the $21,000,000,000 worth of home mortgages now held by financial institutions. . . . As and when this is accomplished, the latent demand for new houses which is beginning to grow acute everywhere will become active, and new construction will start. Very soon it may be expected to reach a very large volume, which should be maintained for many years to come. For it must be remembered that we shall have to make up the building shortage which has been accumulating for several years."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—Does a real shower bath require a separate compartment of its own?

A.—Many people prefer to have the shower placed in a separate compartment, but it is entirely practical to install it over the tub. The size of a large number of bath rooms make this the only solution to the shower problem. Plumbing contractors will be glad to advise on the type of equipment best suited to any particular bathroom.

Q.—I understand brick are sold by the thousand. How many per square foot would I have to buy to build a brick veneer home?

A.—The number of brick required depends upon the size of the brick, the thickness of the mortar joints and the method of construction. Assuming that you use a standard brick 2 1/4 inches by 3 3/4 inches by 8 inches in size and a 3/8-inch mortar joint, with the brick laid flat, then figure on 6 1/2 bricks per square foot of wall.

Q.—Does the owner of a home carrying a mortgage insured by the Federal Housing Administration have to carry fire, tornado and earthquake insurance?

A.—Section 9 of Article 5 of "Regulations of the Federal Housing Administration for Mutual Mortgage Insurance dated November 1, 1934, as amended November 27, 1934," prescribes that a mortgage eligible for insurance must provide for "such equal monthly payments by the mortgagor to the mortgagee as will amortize the estimated amount of all fire and other casualty insurance premiums, within a period ending one month prior to their final due dates." The owner therefore must "carry" fire insurance and such other casualty as the mortgagee may reasonably require. The monthly payments on accounts of insurance premiums are paid together with and in addition to the installment on account of principal, interest, etc.

REPAIR PORCH STEPS WITH INSURED LOAN

Run down steps and porches, often of antiquated design, mar the attractiveness of a home and reduce its resale value.

Installation of new porches and steps or repairing of old ones may be done with an insured loan under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration. Many home owners are taking advantage of this fact to preserve the investment made in their homes; to increase the beauty, attractiveness and usefulness of their porches; and to eliminate the danger of injurious falls which may be due to defective steps.

As a finishing touch, owners are also planting attractive shrubbery around the porches, which adds to privacy and gives a charming landscape setting.

Paint Window Edges

Painting the edges of storm windows and doors, as well as the flat surfaces, besides adding to their attractiveness and beauty, protect them from deterioration by retarding the absorption of moisture which may cause them to swell and stick. Moisture-resistant paints are usually preferred for this purpose.

Composition Roofs

For service stations, houses, barns, factories and pitched roofs of garages, composition roofings are highly satisfactory. The Federal Housing Pro-

Brother Outlaws

Following capture of Floyd Hamilton (below), his brother Raymond (top), Texas "public enemy No. 1," offered to surrender to Federal agents at Dallas if given a prison term instead of the chair for murder. His offer was refused and agents are instructed to shoot him on sight.

Plan has been planned so as to help businesses as well as homes and one of these rot-proof, weather-proof and highly fire-resistant roofs should be one of your first investments.

Overcome Paint Checking

Checking and alligatoring of the surface of paint can be overcome by applying a priming coat with fairly heavy pigment concentration on dry material. The thinner used in the priming coat should preferably be of a volatile nature so that firm, hard drying will be obtained. The practice of using large quantities of thinner to thin down a priming coat of paint is one of the most frequent uses of checking.

Replacing Walls

Many chipped walls will mar the interior appearance of any home. It

This Too Good for Your Cough?

Cremulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven helps in one. It is made for quick relief, for safety.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Cremulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist is authorized to guarantee it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known.—(Advertisement.)

How do you CHOOSE?

EVERY time you make a purchase you make a choice.

Buying a certain product may be so much a matter of habit that you don't realize you are choosing. But the fact remains that in accepting one brand of goods you are always rejecting others; and the satisfaction you get from what you buy depends on the knowledge of quality and values that guides your selection.

How do you know which bed-sheets, or which roofing material, or which radio will give you service you require? You can't personally test everything you buy and compare it with all the other products in its class. But there is a way to find out which brand fits your needs.

The people who are most successful in their buying—who achieve the highest percentage of satisfaction from the things they own and use—are those who consistently read the advertising columns, and buy consistently advertised goods.

LET'S GIVE A PARTY ON VALENTINE'S DAY

Of all the holidays the calendar brings, Valentine's Day affords greater opportunity to create menus and decorative accessories that are truly colorful and charming.

Let us suppose that you want to give a children's party. You will wish to keep the menu simple but with a surprise element that will appeal to little folks. An afternoon party with refreshments served at the end of the frolic is ideal. Here is a suggested menu for children from six to twelve years of age.

Braquette of Chicken and Peas
Melba Toast and Jam
Chocolate Sticks and Gingersnap Hearts

Prune Ice Cream
Milk or Cocoa

Braquette of Chicken and Peas

2 cups milk
3 tablespoons shortening
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup cooked diced chicken
1 cup canned peas
1 egg white
6 hard French rolls.

Make a cream sauce of the first five ingredients; when thoroughly cooked mix half with the chicken and peas. With a sharp knife cut a thin slice off the tops of the rolls and remove the soft centers. Fill with the creamed chicken and peas. Beat the egg white and fold into the remaining white sauce. Pour a tablespoon of this sauce on top of the creamed mixture in the rolls. Replace the tops. Spread the remaining sauce over the rolls and bake in a moderate oven for 15 or 20 minutes.

Chocolate Sticks

1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup melted shortening
1 egg
2 squares chocolate melted
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup seeded dates
1/4 cup nuts

Powdered sugar for coating sticks.

To the brown sugar add the melted shortening and the slightly beaten egg and beat well. Add the chocolate, which has been melted over hot water; the flour, the dates which have been cut into quite small pieces and the nuts broken into bits. Beat well. Line an 8-inch square cake pan with heavy white paper, greasing this lining with butter. This chocolate mixture scorches easily and the paper lining of the pan lessens the danger of burning the cookies. Bake in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes. When it is done remove from the pan and while still warm cut into small strips about 1/2 inch wide and 3 inches long. Roll these in powdered sugar at once.

Gingersnap Hearts

Boil together for six minutes 1 cup each of shortening, brown sugar and molasses. Cool to lukewarm, add the grated rind of 1 orange, 1 well beaten egg, 1 teaspoon ginger and flour to make a stiff dough, sifted with 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon soda. Chill, roll very thin and cut in heart shape. Decorate with nuts.

Prune Ice Cream

2/3 cup sweetened condensed milk
2 cups water

1/4 teaspoon lemon extract
1 cup whipping cream
1/4 pound prunes

Cook the prunes in the water until tender. Do not sweeten. Force through a coarse sieve. This will make about 1/2 cup pulp and 1/2 cup juice. Blend together the sweetened condensed milk, prune pulp, with juice and lemon extract. Chill. Whip the cream to a custard-like consistency and fold into the chilled mixture. Pour the mixture into the freezing pan and place in the freezing unit. After the mixture has frozen to a stiff mush (1 to 2 hours) remove from the refrigerator. Scrape the mixture from the sides and bottom of the pan and beat for 2 minutes. Smooth out and replace in the freezing unit for 1 hour or until frozen for serving. In serving sprinkle the top of each portion with red candy hearts.

Coffee
Baked Virginia Ham with Cherry Garnish

Scrub the ham and soak it in cold water for 24 hours. Then wrap closely in cheesecloth, sew it into place and put over the fire to cook in boiling water. Simmer very slowly for four or five hours; leave overnight in the water in which it was cooked, remove the covering and peel away the outer skin. Brush with beaten egg, cover thickly with brown sugar and mark into diamonds; place a maraschino cherry in each diamond, circling each cherry with whole cloves, sprinkle a little lemon juice over the ham, add a pint of cider or white wine to the pan, cover and bake one hour in a slow oven. Chill thoroughly before slicing.

Beets a la russe

Boil 8 or 10 beets, grind in food chopper (canned beets may be used). Make a sauce of 1 teaspoon flour, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1/2 cup water and seasonings. Mix beets in sauce, cook 10 to 15 minutes. Add 1/2 cup sour cream and serve.

Escalloped Potatoes

Peel and slice thin 6 or 8 potatoes. Place in a casserole and cover with milk. Add salt and pepper and dot top liberally with butter. Bake until potatoes are tender.

Pineapple Muffins

2 cups flour
3 tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
2/3 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup crushed pineapple
3 tablespoons butter

Sift the dry ingredients. Beat the eggs and add the evaporated milk and water, then add the dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Melt the shortening and add with the pineapple in a greased muffin pan in a hot oven, which should be well drained. Bake in a greased muffin pan in a hot oven.

Strawberry Ice Cream Cake The Cake

1 cup flour plus 3 tablespoons cake or pastry flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup hot water
2 teaspoons lemon extract

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Beat egg yolks until creamy, add half the sugar slowly and continue beating. Add hot water and the remaining sugar and beat for 5 minutes. Fold in carefully the sifted flour mixture and the flavoring. Beat egg whites until stiff, fold into mixture and put in a heart shaped pan and bake in a slow oven for 45 to 55 minutes. Invert for 1 hour, then remove from pan. Before serving cut out center of cake, making an opening large enough to fill with a generous amount of strawberry ice cream. Cover top with whipped cream sweetened and tinted a delicate pink.

Extra Charge for French Phones Goes Off Feb. 15th

By John W. Seotzin

(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 8.—(INS)—An estimated saving of more than $500,000 annually to a total of 168,000 subscribers of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania who have used the French or hand-set telephone continuously for the past two years begins on February 15.

Discontinuance of the extra charge of 25 cents a month, or $3 a year, for French telephones becomes effective on that date as provided in an order by the Public Service Commission on February 21, 1933. Hereafter all subscribers who have had the hand-set instrument two years will be billed the same rate as for standard equipment.

Change of residence, it was learned, will not deprive a subscriber of this saving provided he continues to live in this State and meets the time requirement.

Almost half of the newer instruments now in use were installed in 1932. At the time the commission's ruling was handed down, the company had 235,000 French telephones as compared with $58,000 of the desk-set types. When first introduced, an additional charge of 50 cents a month was made but this was cut in 1928 to 25 cents. At present the total number of French telephones in use is about 168,000.

The company had declared in justifi-test. At the same time the commission upon its own motion instituted an inquiry and investigation which subsequently resulted in discontinuance of the extra charge.

"It has not been a case of the company reluctantly installing the hand-sets demanded of it and taking a necessary loss as best it might, but one of its welcoming as a matter of good business, on the basis of the present permanent 25-cent charge, the opportunity of substituting the hand-set for the desk stand," the commission found.

LANGHORNE

Joseph Davenport, president of the school board, and who planned to attend the Harrisburg school convention, now in session, could not leave home because of a severe illness.

A group of young people from Fallington, Trenton, Bordentown, Oxford Valley and Langhorne, were guests of Robert Erwin of the Oxford Valley Chapel, Tuesday night. Miss Marie Ayres and V. E. Jacobson rendered a French horn and accordion duet. The Rev. Jacobson, of the Trenton Church of the Air, addressed the gathering. Ben. Coghill, president of the Fallington young people, reported on his group activities.

A forceful preacher occupied the pulpit of Oakhurst Chapel, Sunday. He was Ralph Carr, Plainfield, N. J., and is the brother-in-law of the late George Davis, founder of the Binghamton Bible School, of which Marion Oakley, of this place, is a recent graduate. The Rev. Carr and Howard Phillips played trombone solos and duets; Donald Oakley, trumpet; Grace Oakley, harpophone solos; Marion Oakley and Marjorie Claassen, violin selections.

Miss Grace Oakley will speak next Sunday at the Baptist Church and Tabernacle at Plainfield, N. J. Several persons from here will take part in the musical program.

ROE'S BUDS WIN THIRD STRAIGHT CAGE VICTORY

By T. M. Juno

A strong scoring first-half gave the Roe's Buds their third straight victory in the first game of the evening when they set back the Eries, 37-24. The Buds are undefeated in the league race.

The Buds held a 17-4 lead at the half-time whistle and all during the first half seemed to score at will. While they were ringing the net continuously, the Eries were bottled and held to a single field goal.

"Eddie" Roe led his team in the scoring with seven twin-pointers and a foul to give him 17 points. Mulligan also aided his team with 10 points. Sullivan played a good defensive match for the losers.

LANCASTER—(NS)—An echo of the Civil War was heard in a claim presented to Congress by Rep. J. Roland Kinzer to give $50,150 to the First Columbia National Bank for the turning of the Columbia-Wrightsville bridge by union soldiers in 1863 to prevent the Confederate forces from crossing the Susquehanna.

The bank is the successor to the Columbia bank which built the bridge in 1834.

"JIMMY" LAKE ROAMS FREELY; ENNISONS WIN

By T. M. Juno

The Ennisons made the fatal mistake of allowing "Jimmy" Lake to roam freely under the basket last night and as the result suffered a 39-33 setback at the hands of the Falcons. The fray was an A. O. H. League match.

Lake dropped four field goals in rapid succession in the waning moments of the game to give his team the victory. "Tudde" Gosline had deadlocked the score at 30-all before Lake went on his scoring rampage. Mulligan and Gosline counted from the foul mark before the final whistle.

The game was featured by two spirited rallies by the Ennisons. Twice they came from behind to cut into the Falcons' lead. In the first quarter after Marty Fallon's boys had amassed a 9-1 lead, the Ennisons scored strongly to take a 15-13 lead at the half-time.

At the beginning of the second half, three consecutive field goals by Fallon put his team in the van but the Ennisons were not outdone and again came from behind to deadlock the count.

"Jimmy" Lake was the high scorer for the winners, making ten field goals. Wilkins did the best scoring for the Ennisons with five double-deckers.

FALLSINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fowler and children, Edwin, David and Richard, Philadelphia, were Sunday visitors of the Misses Moon.

Mrs. Mary Haldeman, mother of John Haldeman, of this place, was severely burned about the arms, legs and body, when an electric heater set her clothes on fire. She was taken to Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., by members of the family, who extinguished the blaze.

Miss Charlotte Kirby spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stout, Holland.

Mr. Frank Headley, Philadelphia, was a Sunday visitor in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Evan Moon, Jr., are spending two weeks as guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Carleton, Miami Beach, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. George Whorton and son George, Headley Manor, were Saturday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Carter.

Louise Waite Watson gave a talk at the Women's Club meeting, at Summerseat, Morrisville, on Tuesday afternoon, taking for her subject, "My Garden."

Edgar Snipes has returned from a visit to South Carolina.

One hundred and twenty-five new books have been purchased for the Fallsington Library. These books are mostly for boys and girls.

David McLaughlin was a Sunday visitor at West Chester.

More "Baer Meat" for Max

By BURNLEY

Bringing back memories of the immortal John L.'s famous exhibition bouts, the present heavyweight, "Mighty Max" Baer, is taking on sundry but not all opponents in so-called exhibition bouts throughout the land (but not in New York—no, no, a thousand times no—not while the N. Y. commission remains on the job.)

The difference between the one and only Max's exhibitions and those of the historic Boston Strong Boy is that John L. took on all comers (except Peter Jackson) and promised to smack them colder than a landlord's heart within a fixed limit of time, usually three heats, I believe.

On the other fist, not to say hand, Master Baer rarely belts out the opposition in his exhibitions, but merely clowns through the four rounds, unless his toeman becomes unduly rambunctious and really lets one go at the August Baer crotchery.

In the latter case, the Baer that walks like a man is very, very apt to bring a couple up from the floor, and then it's every man for himself, and old men and cripples keep back of the ropes. Remember what happened to de Keengteesh Levinsky!

Also, Baer is not engaging in these "exhibition" battles because of any desire to add to his flistic reputation, or to prove that "he can lick any man in the world," which, of course, was John L.'s famous boast. King Maxwell the First and Only is sorely in need of cash, in order to live as a King should, and he is picking up a little pocket change while waiting for the big title defense next Summer.

The not-so-daffy Max has it all figured out that he will net about fifty grand from these exhibitions before next June rolls around, and not even a King should sneeze at that kind of pocket change.
